Where and how we work

“

Fundamentalists have mistaken the relation between passion, emotion and good science. These are not antithetical, but complexly interdependent. Science, at its best, is driven by passion and emotion. We have emotions for the same reason we have arms and legs: They have proved to be useful over time.

Our only hope for the future is to adopt a new conception of human ecology, one in which we start to reconstitute our conception of the richness of human capacity. Our education system has mined our minds in the way that we strip-mine the earth: for a particular commodity. And for the future, it won't serve us.

Ken Robinson ”
